Learn to Think

Learn to Think – A New Direction for Human Inner Development

Thinking is not just an intellectual process, but a living connection between the body, emotions and consciousness.

When the mind becomes quiet, thinking expands from an inner criticism to a function that guides life and humanity.

This is the first time that we open the “Learn to Think” theme in more depth in connection with self-knowledge and self-investigation.

In addition to a short video introducing the topic, we would like to hear the opinions, thoughts and wishes of the participants on how this topic would be most meaningful to learn and explore together?

Welcome to join us to learn and reflect on how we could develop self-knowledge together.

- Introduction by Jukka Korhonen
